

Discover the Art of Falconry

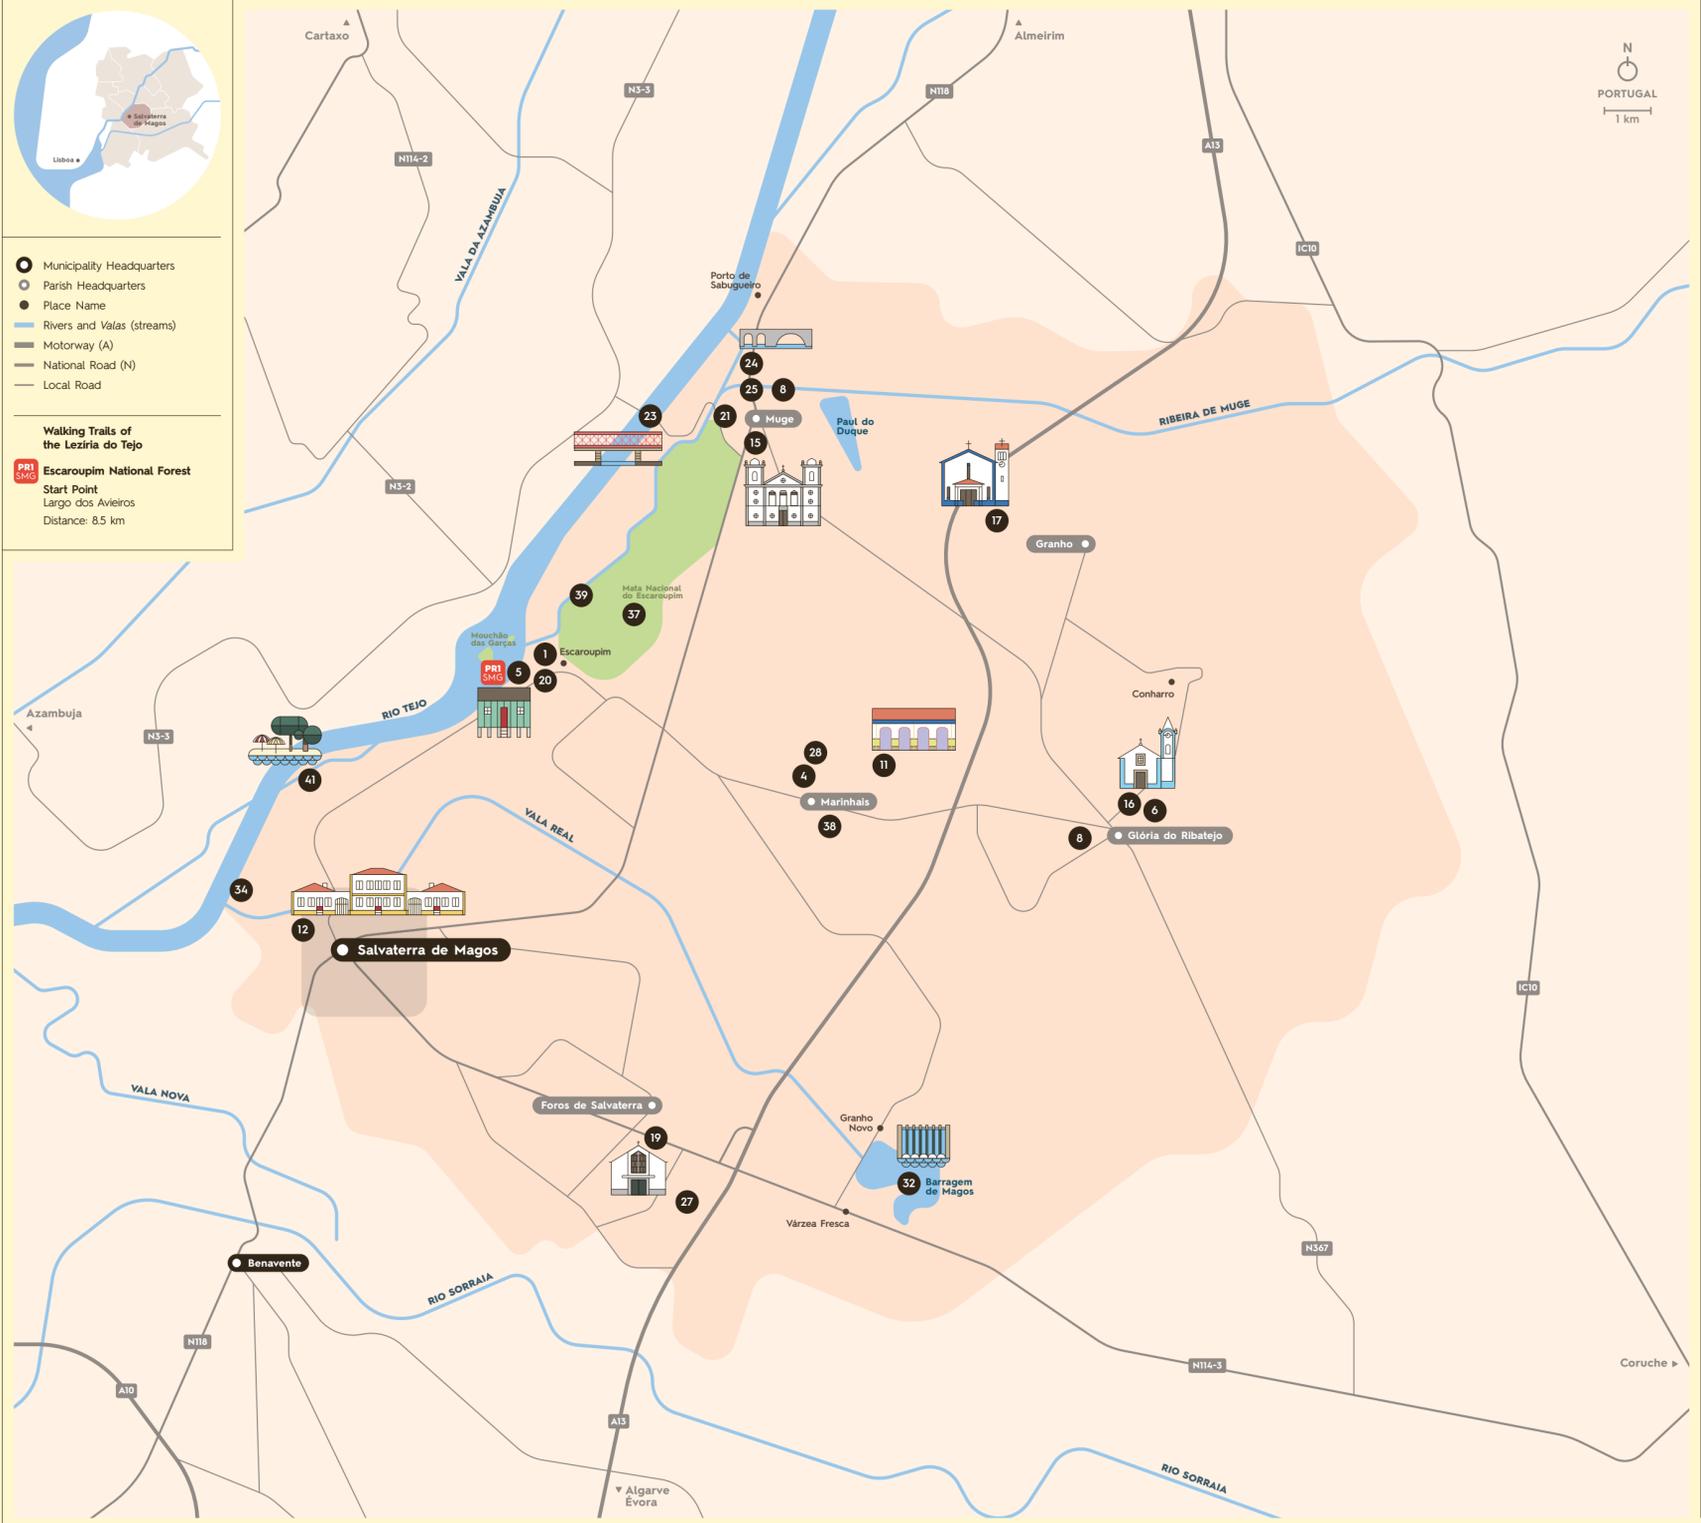

The Falconry of Salvaterra de Magos gained UNESCO recognition in 2016, joining several other countries where the practice of falconry is already recognised.

Falconry is one of the oldest relationships between man and bird and the agility and skill of the birds is matched only by their bond with their handler.

Celebrate the art of falconry and the legends of royalty at Salvaterra de Magos.

Recognised by the UNESCO register of Intangible Cultural Heritage, the Falcoaria Real (once a royal palace) preserves ancient falconry traditions, conducts research and creates a memorable visitor experience that celebrates this extraordinary bond.

Welcome to Salvaterra de Magos

Where beautiful landscapes and unique heritage combine

12 Falcoaria Real

Aside from the mesmerising birds and their aerial displays, the Falcoaria Real building itself is worth a tour. Dating from the 18th century, it shows how the birds are housed and trained and provides background explanations for each species of raptor.

It's remarkable to consider that some species flying here have flown the skies above Ribatejo since the Middle Ages.

6 Traditional House and Ethnographic Museum of Glória do Ribatejo

This is a traditional house, kept in the style of the region and designed to cherish the way of life in times past. Marvel at the simplicity of the kitchen, the bedroom and the outside oven for baking the daily bread.

The ethnographic museum has displays that illuminate the rural way of life, with agricultural artefacts, photographic records, arts and crafts and contemporary clothing, all donated by the inhabitants of Glória do Ribatejo.

When you leave the museum, you will have a far clearer idea of the lives these people lived a century or more ago.

8 Centre of Documentation and Ethnographic Studies of Glória do Ribatejo

This documentation and ethnographic studies centre was created in Glória do Ribatejo in 2009. A vast collection of documents shines a light on the culture and way of life, with visits by appointment only.

21 Senhor Domingos' Pottery

The pottery in Muge dates back to Roman times, with traditional techniques still very much in operation. Designs are tried and tested, and the wood-fired kilns are key to these unique pieces.

Granho Basket Weavers

Though less prolific than once they were, the basket weavers of Salvaterra are very much in demand, especially in Granho. Quality materials, expert weaving and original design are prized.

28 Equitassa Saddlery

This is a must-visit destination in Salvaterra de Magos if you wish to take home some handmade equestrian items of real quality.

34 Bico da Goiva

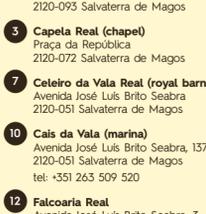

Not far down river from Escaroupim you will find the Bico da Goiva, a pleasant riverside park with views over the shimmering water of the Tagus. Spread out the picnic blanket, lose yourself in a good book, and while away a relaxing day.

36 Marina do Cais da Vala Real

In the distant past, Portuguese royalty escaping the city life of Lisbon would stay at Salvaterra de Magos and visit this spot, Terreiro do Paço, for falconry and enjoying musical performances.

Today this riverside location is a picturesque marina with many small boats and a peaceful ambience.

36 Trips Along the River Tagus

Boat trips are a great way to get to know the area, allowing you to sit back and relax at the same time.

Operators like Promartur and Rio-a-Dentro offer river exploration routes that provide the best way to see the rich flora and fauna of the riverside around Salvaterra de Magos.

Spotting the migratory birds in their natural habitat and the graceful horses grazing contentedly on the river islands, or mouchões, is always a highlight.

36 Museu Escaroupim e o Rio

Opened in 2017, the Escaroupim museum of local life is a tribute to the riverside communities of the Tagus and celebrates the traditions and memories of the Aveiros.

The exhibition explains the importance of the Tagus river to the Ribatejo region and brings to life the human stories behind this great migration that shaped the riverside forever.

36 Avieira Village of Escaroupim

This typical fishing village was founded in the 1930s by Aveiros fishermen. They moved with the seasons, but some stayed and built their distinctive timber houses, set on stilts to withstand floods and painted in bright colours. In the village's museum (Núcleo Museológico da Casa Avieira) you can see how these nomadic people lived.

36 Barretes

The barretes are the sweet pastry speciality of Salvaterra de Magos, created by the famous 'Parodiantes de Lisboa', the brothers José and Rui Andrade who had a popular radio show for many years. It is an orange, almond, egg and sugar cake, and is a house speciality at the Cabana dos Parodiantes in Salvaterra.

36 Traditional Sweets from Glória do Ribatejo

With recipes passed down through the generations, these small, sweet, biscuity delicacies have long been part of Glória do Ribatejo's culture. They make a great souvenir!

36 Tejo Wines

Check out the Tejo Wine Tourism Guide, that lists the wine producers and farmsteads of Salvaterra de Magos and Ribatejo, together with their wine-related activities.

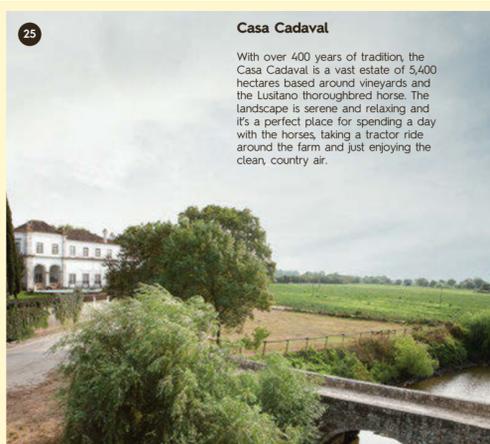

36 The Flavours of Ribatejo

25 Casa Cadaval

With over 400 years of tradition, the Casa Cadaval is a vast estate of 5,400 hectares based around vineyards and the Lusitano thoroughbred horse. The landscape is serene and relaxing and it's a perfect place for spending a day with the horses, taking a tractor ride around the farm and just enjoying the clean, country air.

34 Bico da Goiva

Not far down river from Escaroupim you will find the Bico da Goiva, a pleasant riverside park with views over the shimmering water of the Tagus. Spread out the picnic blanket, lose yourself in a good book, and while away a relaxing day.
